

Buffer Zone Setup Of Reds Rejected Quickly By Allies

By ROBERT B. TUCKMAN
MUNSAN, Korea — (AP)—The Allies today quickly rejected a Communist buffer zone proposal that the U. N. give up such bitterly won Korean areas as Heartbreak Ridge . . . Punchbowl . . . Iron Triangle.

The Reds wanted the United Nations forces to withdraw as much as 15 miles. Their proposal countered yesterday's U. N. suggestion for a buffer zone generally along present battle lines.

Meet Again Saturday
Maj. Gen. Henry I. Hodges told the Reds their proposal bore "no relationship to the military line of contact and did not offer true protection."

The Red offer and U. N. rejection came at the second meeting of subcommittees trying to agree on a cease-fire line. The meetings are held in Panmunjom. Under the Red proposal, they would keep Kaesong, former site of truce talks two miles south of the 38th parallel. They would withdraw from part of Ongjin Peninsula on the West coast, an area the Allies describe as militarily unimportant.

The subcommittees meet again at 11 a. m. Saturday (9 p. m. Friday, EST).

Troop Security First
It appeared the two delegations were entering a period of horse-trading.

But the U. N. spokesman, Brig. Gen. William P. Nuckols, discounted the idea there would be any large-scale bargaining.

"We will not trade territory simply to be trading," Nuckols said. "Military considerations and the security of United Nations troops will be the sole governing factor in any minor refinements or modifications of our specific proposal of yesterday."

He said the Communist offer was "the first departure from the hitherto adamant stand (by the Reds) on the 38th parallel and only the 38th parallel."

The U. N.-proposed line is virtually all north of 38. The Allies offered to withdraw from about 200 square miles of territory in the east, and asked an equal Red withdrawal in the west.

New York Milk Strike Ended; Price Goes Up

NEW YORK—(AP)—Milk trucks started rolling again today to serve 12,000,000 consumers in the metropolitan area following settlement of a one-day strike in the industry.

The dairies said they hoped for normal or near-normal deliveries today in the three-state area.

Fifteen thousand drivers and dairy workers employed by 200 companies won a "package" increase of $10.80 a week in an agreement which ended the strike late yesterday.

Consumers apparently will have to pay more for their milk within a matter of days. The industry sought ceiling relief from the Office of Price Stabilization two months ago—a petition which price officials said was not confined to the element of higher labor costs.

The Office of Price Stabilization has been working on a new pricing order. Unofficial estimates of the expected hike range from one cent to two cents a quart, with influential industry representatives expecting it to be one and a half cents.

New Yorkers now generally pay 24 cents a quart for home-delivered milk and 21½ cents for store milk.

Anna Hears No Gripes In Korea

EASTERN FRONT, Korea — (AP)—Mrs. Anna Rosenberg sat on a rice paddy dike near Heartbreak Ridge yesterday and got the GI word on conditions in Korea.

"Never have I seen anything like it," said Mrs. Rosenberg, assistant secretary of defense. "I talked to each of these (20) men and did not receive one single gripe from any of them about the combat condition over here."

"Without exception, each man in the division to whom I talked said the food is good, mail service is good and they are getting plenty of winter clothing."

Accompanied by Gen. James A. Van Fleet, Eighth Army Commander, Mrs. Rosenberg arrived at a forward airstrip in a light plane. She wore WAC slacks and an Eisenhower jacket.

Within a few minutes she had cornered 20 battle-hardened enlisted men, led them away from the officers and invited: "Let's squat and talk it over, fellows." The rumble of artillery fire punctuated their conversation.

A rousing cheer greeted Mrs. Rosenberg when she said the department of defense was seeking more front line stage shows and "there will be more girls."

Two-Pound Baby Goes To 17 Pounds In Year

ST. LOUIS—(AP)—Michael Charles Meyer hasn't been wasting any time since his birth a year ago.

When born, three months prematurely, he weighed just 2 pounds, 1 ounce. Today he weighs 17 pounds, 10 ounces.

His mother, Mrs. Walter F. Meyer, says he has five teeth and a wonderful appetite.

Generally babies triple their birth weight in the first year.

Ike Better Speak Up If He Wants To Run, Says Montana Solon

By JACK BELL
WASHINGTON — (AP)—Senator Murray (D-Mont) said today Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower had better make up his mind fast if he wants the Republican presidential nomination.

Otherwise, Murray predicted to a reporter, Senator Robert A. Taft of Ohio will walk away with the GOP prize.

Murray's comment came after President Truman told a White House news conference yesterday he thinks the New York Herald Tribune certainly picked a fine man in editorially supporting Eisenhower as a candidate for the Republican nomination.

Shadow Opens Office

In other political developments: 1. Taft backers arranged to open national headquarters here today in charge of Victor A. Johnston, once a supporter of Harold E. Stassen and sometime Republican "shadow" of the president in the 1950 whistle stop tour.

2. Mr. Truman divulged he hasn't yet picked a man from a list of about 30 being considered to succeed William M. Boyle, Jr., resigning Democratic National chairman.

3. The president spoke out against a reported plan of Wisconsin Democrats to invade the Republican primary in that state in an effort to defeat Senator Joseph McCarthy (R-Wis). He believes in the two party system and the Democrats should vote in their own primary, Mr. Truman said.

4. Tom Coleman, a member of Taft's campaign strategy board, told reporters he doubts Eisenhower can be represented in the April 1 Wisconsin primary unless the general consents publicly to become a candidate.

Not A Good Idea

Murray said he hopes Eisenhower won't be lured into the political arena.

"I don't believe it's a good idea for a military man to be president," the Montana senator said. "I would hate to see Eisenhower leave his very important job in Europe, even to become president, because his presence on the spot is needed to stimulate those countries."

He added he doesn't believe Eisenhower or any other man can have a party nomination unless he gives the public signal to his supporters to go after delegates.

Planes Warned Of Atomic Test

By BILL BECKER

LAS VEGAS, Nev. — (AP)—The weather cleared early today and the Atomic Energy Commission issued a double barreled warning to aircraft to stay well clear of its Nevada test site and out of certain air lanes.

Through the Civil Aeronautics Administration, the AEC cautioned planes to stay outside a radius of 170 miles from Las Vegas, and also to avoid the altitudes of 11,000, 14,000, and 15,000 feet between here and Albuquerque, and the 10,000 foot level between here and Goodsprings, Nev.

The second atomic test is slated to be larger than last Monday's miniature blast. It presumably will not include troops.

Before troops receive their nuclear baptism, they will undergo at least one more "dry run" such as the conventional bomb drop held Wednesday. This might be held alternately, with T. N. T. being used, if inclement weather continues to pose a radiation problem to the atomic experiment.

Exercise Desert Rock—the actual maneuvering of troops in the battlefield under cover of atomic weapons—is tentatively scheduled for next week. Soldiers at Camp Desert Rock saw 200 of their tents blown down by wind yesterday. A half inch of rain fell in the region.

Truman Tells Why He Picked Clark As Vatican Ambassador

WASHINGTON — (AP)—President Truman's evident determination to re-submit the appointment of Gen. Mark Clark as ambassador to the Vatican forecasts a bitter battle when Congress returns to Washington.

Mr. Truman told a White House news conference yesterday the hushballoos raised by his decision to establish formal diplomatic relations with the Roman Catholic church state was not as great as he expected.

Critics Given Time
The president also asserted that sending an ambassador to the Vatican—where the U. S. recently has been represented only by a personal representative of the president—does not conflict with the traditional American policy of separation of church and state.

This issue has been raised by Protestant church groups, among them the Baptist denomination to which Mr. Truman belongs.

With the obvious inference he plans to re-submit the Clark nomination when Congress returns in January, Mr. Truman said there would be time in the interim for the people to get the criticism of his action off their chests.

The president dashed the hopes of some Democratic senators who have been urging that he sidestep out of the controversy by naming Clark as his personal representative. Myron G. Taylor previously served in that role.

Not Backing Down
Asked why he nominated Clark as an ambassador, Mr. Truman said because that was the way he wanted it. That's my choice, he said, indicating he is willing to face the church-state issue squarely.

He took the step, the president added, because he believed the cause of peace would be served by having an official representative at the Vatican. He did not mention, as he had last Saturday in announcing the appointment, to Communism.

New Icebreaker Ferry Delayed

DETROIT — (AP)—Now it's likely that the big, new $4,500,000 icebreaker ferry Vacationland won't be in on the first northward hauls of deer hunters next month.

Perhaps the best it can do is bring some of them back across the Straits of Mackinac on the way home.

Shortages of materials and manpower were represented today as a cause for delay of the Vacationland's maiden trip.

The 360-foot, double-ended vessel was launched April 7 in the River Rouge by the Great Lakes Engineering Works.

Intentions were to have her on duty for the start of the deer season Nov. 15. Her fittings have been slowed markedly, however.

Charles Haskill, Great Lakes president, said that steel shipments have been late and it's been hard to get riveters and shipfitters.

The Vacationland's principal job will be in the winter time, however. She'll then be helping to keep the Straits open to traffic.

Former State Prison Deputy Warden Dead

JACKSON, Mich. — (AP)—Dellie C. Pettit, who served 12 years as deputy warden of Southern Michigan prison until his ouster in 1945, died today after a long illness. He was 50 years old.

Pettit entered service in the prison in 1919 as a grocery clerk. He became deputy warden in 1933 under Warden Harry H. Jackson, and lost his job in the shakeup of July, 1945, along with Jackson and other top prison officials.

Isle Royale Least Visited Of U. S. National Parks

WASHINGTON — (AP)—Michigan's Isle Royale enjoys an unusual distinction—it's the least visited national park in the United States.

During the year ended Sept. 30, Secretary of the Interior Chapman said Thursday, only 2,370 persons visited the island, 40 miles off the Michigan coast in Lake Superior.

Deadly Atlanta Liquor Traced

ATLANTA — (AP)—A former convict charged with murder in the death of 31 persons who died here after drinking poisoned liquor was identified last night as a mixer of deadly moonshine.

Solicitor Paul Webb of Fulton county said a North Georgia farmer told him he saw John R. (Fat) Hardy blend wood alcohol and well water at an abandoned farmhouse about 25 miles north-east of Atlanta.

The brew was made a few days before a wave of moonshine liquor deaths began sweeping Atlanta, Webb said the farmer related.

Webb said the farmer—52-year-old Luke Turner—told him last night that Hardy was aided by an unidentified Negro in mixing the deadly stuff.

A few hours earlier the solicitor had filed murder charges against Hardy, a 360-pounder.

The huge one-time convict admitted he had peddled 99 gallons of a mixture of wood alcohol and water to Negro bootleggers here, Webb disclosed.

Fourth Body Hunted In Saginaw River Automobile Tragedy

SAGINAW, Mich. — (AP)—Search was underway today for the last of four women whose brackless car plunged into the Saginaw river early Thursday after a gay hotel party.

Naval and police officers still sought the body of 30-year-old Mrs. Geraldine Grekietis, divorced mother of three children and owner and driver of the ill-fated auto.

Yesterday the river yielded the car, with the bodies of three women in the back seat.

Relatives identified the victims, Mrs. Kathryn Campbell, 43-year-old mother of 11 children; Mrs. Doris Price, 35, and Mrs. Clara Shada, 47. Authorities said they were certain Mrs. Grekietis also perished in the river.

Razor Blades In Bed Blamed On Husband

LOS ANGELES — (AP)—Mrs. Hope Wisdom obtained a court order for her estranged husband, Champ, to move out of their house and stay out, after she told a woman judge yesterday that:

She didn't mind so much when her husband got boozed up and threatened her with a butcher knife. But it made her nervous when he put razor blades in her bed.

More Russian MIGs Shot Down In Korea

By MILO FARNETTI

U. S. EIGHTH ARMY HEADQUARTERS, Korea — (AP)—Allied jet pilots today shot down two Russian made MIGs and damaged three others in the sixth straight day of aerial dog fights over Korea.

On the ground U. N. infantrymen advanced in hand to hand combat.

The Navy reported a U. S. cruiser and destroyer were hit last week by Red shore fire and one man was killed and six wounded.

The Fifth Air Force said all its jets returned safely from three separate air battles in which 68 allied planes tangled with 121 MIGs.

All told, U. N. fighters sighted between 150 and 160 jets in MIG Alley over northwest Korea and near the North Korean capital of Pyongyang. But some of the Reds fled.

The Fifth Air Force said a new record 35 locomotives and 289 rail cars were destroyed or damaged in a series of raids centered in the northwest. The old mark was 20 locomotives and 272 rail cars. Destroyed or damaged Sept. 19.

In new ground fighting northwest of Yonchon, the Eighth Army said, U. N. forces fought for control of hilly terrain. Red defenders threw a heavy volume of machinegun and automatic weapon fire at the allied attackers who closed to hand grenade range.

Election Ends Six-Year Rule Of Socialists

Rural Areas Swing Margin To Tories

By RELMAN MORIN

LONDON — (AP)—Winston Churchill returned to power in Britain today. He led his conservative party to victory over the Labor government in a desperately fought election that rung down the curtain on six years of Socialist rule but left the Tories far short of the House of Commons strength they hoped for.

Churchill, just turning 77, won a majority, or more than 313 seats, in the House of Commons. The exact size of the conservative majority will not be known until a few outlying districts report next week. But it will be a slender margin—leaving possibly 300 seats to Clement R. Attlee's Labor party. This is not much better than the thin margin previously held by Attlee.

Liberals On Wane

The results brought to a climax six years of grim, unrelenting struggle by political warrior Churchill against the Socialist doctrines of the Labor party, which imposed government control over much of Britain's industry and private enterprise.

MAY EASE STRIFE

LONDON — (AP)—Winston Churchill, notified of his reelection to parliament today, made what amounted to a victory statement for his Conservative party.

"Now, perhaps, there may be a lull in our party strife which will enable us to understand more what is good in our opponents and not be so very clever finding all their shortcomings," Churchill said.

With returns in from 601 of the nation's 625 districts, the Conservatives held 313 seats in the House. Labor had 290 seats, the waning Liberal party, 5, and others, 2.

In percentages, the Conservatives had won 48.5 of the total known popular vote, the Socialists 49.1 and the Liberals 24.

Churchill was jubilant—and grateful. Speaking to his constituents at Woodford, where he was reelected to Parliament, he said: "You have given me wonderful support. It never reached a higher pinnacle than it did today."

With the Conservatives back in control, it was certain that Churchill would be chosen by them to resume the post of prime minister. This is the office he held throughout World War II and lost in August, 1945, when a Socialist tidal wave swept his government out of office.

He told British voters, during the campaign, that putting an end to the cold war with the Communist world is "the last prize I seek to win." This effort, and the modification of Socialist strictures on business and industry, undoubtedly will engage his attentions immediately.

He may then step out of office in favor of his closest associate, Anthony Eden, who is reported

Delta Potato Champs Named; Falkies Tops With 924 Bu. An Acre

Frank Falkies of Cornell, former Michigan potato king, bettered his own record this year and established a yield of 924 bushels an acre to head the list of Delta county potato champions of 1951.

The winners in the Escanaba Potato Booster contest were announced at Cornell in the evening program of the Delta County Potato Show.

Good growing practices as well as yield are considered in the selection of winners in the Potato Booster contest. The contest was begun more than a decade ago.

Champions Get Trophies

Falkies bettered all his previous records of 619 bushels in 1946, 794 bushels in 1947, 847 bushels in 1948, 780 bushels in 1950.

Trophies were awarded winners in three divisions, plus an open class tablestock exhibit, as follows:

Certified seed—Frank Falkies of Cornell; Tablestock—Joe Steff and sons, Gerald and Lowell, whose yield was 699.7 bushels an acre; Tablestock (open class)—Jules Van Damme of St. Nicholas; 4-H Club grower—John Knaus of Cornell, yield 569 bushels an acre.

Miss Sundquist Queen

All of the growers produced russet rurals, and high yields were unexpected because of the generally unfavorable growing season.

Miss LaVerne Sundquist, 18, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Sundquist of the Bark River Sunnyside district was crowned 1951 Delta county Potato Show queen.

The five-foot-two eyes-of-blue Miss Sundquist graduated last spring from Bark River-Harris high school and is employed in the Bark River bank.

Comprising her court of honor are Miss Lillian Brannstrom of Rapid River; Miss Yvonne Gamache, Cornell; Miss June Kleis, Rock; Miss Elaine Larson, Stonington.

The Delta potato champions and Miss Sundquist will compete for Upper Peninsula honors at the U. P. Potato Show to be held Oct. 30, 31 and Nov. 1 at Marquette.

Many Receive Awards

A social program was enjoyed at Cornell last night following announcement of the potato contest winners and crowning of the queen.

In addition to the trophies a total of $350 in cash awards were given in business and professional life.

IN JAPAN—Sgt. John H. Barr, son of Mr. and Mrs. John Barr, Sr., formerly of Bark River, now residing in Pasadena, California, is stationed in Sendi, Japan with the 40th National Guard division, California.

Van Acker Hits 1,061 Bushels

Menominee Grower May Have Record

MEMONIEE—With an unprecedented yield of 1,061.4 bushels per acre of Russet Rural tablestock potatoes, Rene Van Acker of Wallace has become the undisputed "Potato King" of Menominee county for 1951.

Announcement of Van Acker's achievement, which is certain to be a U. P. record and may be a state record as well, was made at the annual Menominee County Potato Show Wednesday night in the Stephenson High school gymnasium. In the 1,061.4 bushel yield, 978.9 bushels were U. S. No. 1 potatoes. With his first place Van Acker won the Bank of Stephenson trophy.

Van Acker's yield was more than 400 bushels to the acre more than the second place winner, Charles Graves, Stephenson, whose yield was 623 bushels. Other contestants in the tablestock growers' contest and the order in which they finished were:

Ralph Paulson, Daggett; Frank Thoun, Stephenson; Abel Kovach, Stephenson; Edward Nordgren, Daggett; Robert Menke and Robert Kruhm, both of Stephenson, and Edward Foster, Daggett.

Nahma And Fairbanks Lead Community Chest Campaign In Townships

With approximately 60 per cent of their respective quotas collected, Nahma and Fairbanks townships are "leading the parade" in the Community Chest campaign in the 14 townships in Delta county.

DOUBLES QUOTA

Robert Watchorn, Fairbanks township chairman, reported at noon today that his township had doubled its quota. Watchorn said he would deliver the money to Delta county headquarters in Escanaba this afternoon.

Solicitors are hard at work in Escanaba, Brampton and Wells townships, but only incomplete reports have been heard from the other nine townships in Delta county.

Cattle Rustling Hearing Started

Steiner Defendant On Count Of Larceny

Preliminary hearing started today in Justice A. T. Sohlberg's court at Gladstone in the case of William Steiner of Fairport, charged with larceny of six head of Hereford steers owned by St. Bonaventure Minor Seminary, Sturtevant, Wis., and pastured near Fairport.

If the court holds there is sufficient evidence Steiner will be bound over to circuit court for trial.

Prosecutor J. Clyde McGonagle summoned two witnesses at the hearing this morning before court adjourned until 1 o'clock this afternoon, when additional witnesses will be heard.

Twelve Steers Gone

Robert Watchorn of near Fairport, who was caring for 20 head of cattle he had sold the Seminary, testified that he first noticed some of the larger steers missing in early August. On Aug. 7 he found where six steers had been killed and butchered in the pastures.

A total of 12 steers, valued at about $4,000, are missing.

Watchorn said he believed the remains of the six steers he found indicated the animals had been killed over a period of 10 days to two weeks.

Tire Prints Evidence

Second witness was Detective George Strong of Michigan State Police headquarters, Marquette. He told of the investigation and the making of three casts of truck tire prints, which were submitted in evidence and received by the court over objections of counsel defending Steiner.

The tire casts matched prints made by tires on a truck owned by Steiner. Similar tire prints were found in the area where the steers had been killed, Strong testified.

Witnesses waiting to be heard included Sheriff William E. Miron who signed the complaint against Steiner following an investigation in collaboration with State Police.

Fr. Hartnett Is Jubilee Preacher At St. Patrick's

Rev. Robert C. Hartnett, S. J., native born Escanaban who is editor in chief of the national Catholic weekly review, "America", opened the jubilee celebration of St. Patrick's church here last night with a sermon, "What the Church Expects of the Laity."

Father Hartnett, who was born in Escanaba in 1904 and who was baptized at St. Patrick's church, emphasized in his sermon that the church expects Catholics to serve their family, their community, their neighbors, their country, and of course, their parish to the best of their ability.

"The laity is expected to fulfill its obligations of civil well-being, to keep informed on public affairs and to know the character of public officials and candidates for public office," Father Hartnett said. "This includes an obligation to vote intelligently."

The speaker declared that Catholics owe an obligation to build "bridges of friendship and understanding" with non-Catholic friends and neighbors. The best way to do this, Father Hartnett said, is to fulfill obligations of charity, service to others, integrity in business and professional life.

Hazel Burns Finds O-Jib-Wa Really Helps Arthritis

I OFFER THESE GOOD WORDS of advice to every sufferer of Rheumatism and Arthritis who for some unknown reason have not tried O-JIB-WA BITTERS.

"Nothing I could say would be enough praise for what O-JIB-WA BITTERS has done for me," says Mrs. Hazel Burns of Owosso, Michigan. "It was only a short time ago that the pains and stiffness of Rheumatism and Arthritis were so great that I couldn't raise my arms to eat. I got so bad that I couldn't climb stairs and at times my feet would swell so I couldn't even get my shoes on. Anybody that has had arthritis will know how I suffered. It is for this reason that I wish it were possible for me to tell other people of the wonderful results that I received from O-JIB-WA BITTERS, for this wonderful medicine really helped me as nothing else did. I took O-JIB-WA for 20 days before I could see much results, but from then on my aches and pains began to leave me and I continued to improve. Now, after three large bottles, I am entirely free of arthritis and my stomach, kidneys and nerves have also greatly benefited. I am convinced that there is nothing better than O-JIB-WA BITTERS, so I strongly urge other sufferers to give it a fair trial."

History Is Told In Old Letters

Delta Society Hears Dave Coon Program

Old letters and records, most valuable as source material in the study of history, should be preserved by turning them over to historical societies and should never be destroyed, Dave Coon of Escanaba last night told the Delta County Historical Society in meeting at Carnegie Public Library.

A collector of books and letters relating to Michigan history, Coon illustrated his talk with a display of this material and said some of them had come into his possession by accident and others through dealers.

Among the letters were those bearing signatures of Henry R. Schoolcraft, dated 1822; an 1851 letter to John R. Groat, pioneer in Upper Michigan's copper mining, addressed to "Sault de Sainte Marie"; and letters signed by Lewis Cass, Michigan territorial governor who traveled widely in the Upper Peninsula.

Letters Tell Story
Another letter bore the signature of Lucius Lyons, dated 1847, and bearing on its cover the first U. S. postage stamp. Lyons was prominent in Detroit and in Michigan history.

Schoolcraft, Indian agent at Sault Ste. Marie, was also represented with two now rare volumes of his Algonic Researches, in which he described the legends of the Chippewa Indians. It was on these legends that Longfellow based his epic poem, Song of Hiawatha.

"We know that Schoolcraft paddled around this point at Escanaba, as did some of the other great men of Michigan history," Coon pointed out. "Their letters, and the letters of lesser figures in history, are as close to the real facts of history as we will ever get."

Committee Named
To further the Delta County Historical society's program of preserving historical materials, a collections committee was appointed to receive old records, letters, and other gifts. Appointed to the committee by Frank Bender Jr., society president, were the following:

Mrs. Nancy Thomas, Carnegie Public Library librarian; Mrs. H. H. Farrell and Mrs. George Jensen of Escanaba. Bender will also serve as a member of the committee.

Lunch was served following the program, with Mrs. Dave Coon acting chairman of the committee.

Nahma Honor Roll For First Term Is Announced

NAHMA—The honor roll for the first marking period at the F. W. Good High School has been issued from the superintendent, Mary M. Krutina, as follows:

Honor Roll
Seniors, Cornelius Sochay, Paul Thibault

Sophomore, Harold Hebert
Grade 8, Raymond Juneau and Nancy Jehn
Grade 7, Herbert Kesick
Honorable Mention

Birthday Party
Billy Labadie celebrated his fifth birthday at a party for his friends and schoolmates at the Civic Center. Games with prizes were enjoyed before the birthday luncheon, which was served at a table decorated in the Halloween motif. Billy was well remembered with gifts on the occasion.

Those at the party were: Paul and Stephanie Shafer, George and Kenny Bernier, Judy Todish, Suzanne Miron, Jerry Abbot, Joanne Sefcik, Christine Peterson and Ann and Bobbie Labadie.

Conservation Class Outing
The conservat on class of the F. W. Good high school and their instructor, Mr. Hereson, enjoyed a fishing trip on Thursday morning on Ogoatz Bay. The group was taken by William Rogers, local fisherman. The weather was fine and the trip was exciting as well as educational.

Those present were Mr. Hanson, Betsy Rogers, Ellen Larscheid, Frances Bradley, Nila Jones, Rhea Turan, Clara Bingham, Darla Turan, Margaret Gereau, Barbara Newhouse, Wendell Roddy, Harold Hebert, Loretta Sherlock and Hattie Wright. Jo Jo Rogers made up part of the crew.

Blackfaced end men have been selected for the Kiwanis Minstrel, "What's Cookin'", which will be presented at the Wm. W. Oliver auditorium on Nov. 3, 5 and 6, Fred Johnson, general chairman, announces.

Scene of this year's minstrel show will be a jungle island in the South Pacific.

Larry Fleming will play the role of the king of the jungle tribe, and Jack Ronstad, Escanaba high school debate coach, will be the medicine man.

Other end men will be: Ed O'Leary, chief cook; Clarence Zerbel, secretary of the Better Business Bureau; L. A. Danielson, Prince Blabbermouth; Cleve Moore, Prince Spiderleg; Weahterman S. E. Decker, Prince Slinky; Fred Johnson, Prince Lineslip; Francis Farrell, Prince Fishface; F. Swank, Prince Fatface; Tony Gritanni, General Nuisance; and George Grenholm, Doctor of Philosophy.

Al Mallman, well known minstrel performer, is the author and producer of this year's show. Mrs. Lois Swank is the assistant director, and will have charge of the costuming. Makeup director is Mrs. Karl Gray.

Sam Ham is serving as music director of the show, while Bill Clark will play the organ.

Proceeds of the show will be used for financing boys and girls welfare work of the Kiwanis club. Adult tickets are now on sale. Student tickets will be sold in the schools next week.

John Craig, 59, Dies In Detroit

Heart Attack Fatal To Former Escanaban

John Craig, 59, son of the late William Craig Sr., of Escanaba, died at his home in Detroit early this morning. Death was due to a heart attack.

Word of his death was received from his sister, Mrs. R. W. Coolman, who has been visiting in Detroit the past month.

Mr. Craig was born in Escanaba, and moved to Detroit about thirty years ago, where he was employed with the Detroit Timken Axle company.

He is survived by two brothers and three sisters, Delbert, Superior, Wis.; Gordon, Gladstone; Mrs. Harry Sinclair, Iron Mountain; Mrs. Marion C. Long, Gladstone; and Mrs. R. W. Coolman, Escanaba.

Mr. Coolman and Mrs. Long plan to leave tomorrow to attend the funeral services in Detroit.

Some Adult Classes Open To Enrollment

Approximately 295 persons have enrolled so far in adult education classes in Escanaba, but there is still room for enrollment in some courses and additional classes will be started if there is sufficient demand, Director Vernon Ihlenfeldt announced today.

Still open to enrollment are classes in conversational French and Swedish, slide rule, bookkeeping, writing, bowling, photography, textile painting and volleyball.

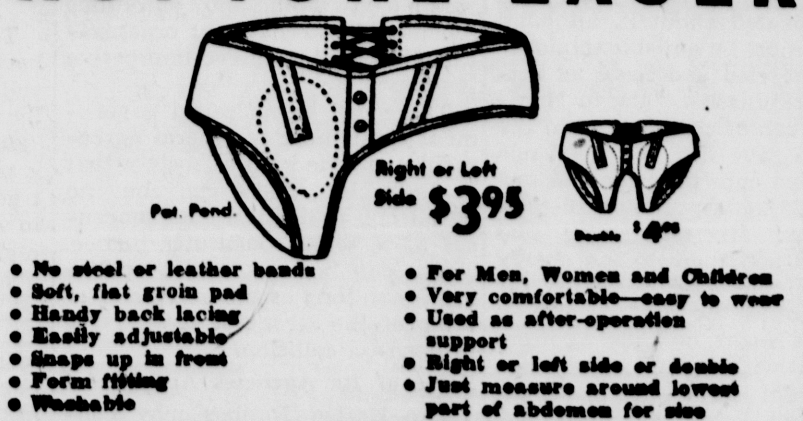

To meet the demand two additional classes in bridge have been opened and enrollment may still be made. Beginning bridge classes are held Tuesday in Room 167, Junior high; and advanced bridge Wednesdays 1:30 to 3:30 p. m. at Club 314.

Some persons have requested additional classes in subjects now presented on Mondays, with the additional classes scheduled for another night in the week. Persons interested in such a plan are asked to telephone 2121 or 2123 for further information.

Pearman Speaks On Age Problem

Says Many Unable To Save Nowadays

Retirement of older workers should be based on the physiological age rather than the chronological, Prof. Jean R. Pearman of Northern Michigan College of Education told the "Living In the Later Years" lecture group at the Escanaba junior high school last night.

"Sixty-five years appears to be the standard age for retirement," Pearman said. "Some persons should be retired at 50, however, and others are capable of doing productive work beyond the age of 65."

Aged Denied Employment
Pearman said that pension and insurance plans in industry are causing many employers to deny employment to older people willing and able to work.

The problem of older age persons has been complicated by the shift in the last few decades from an agricultural to an urban industrial economy, Pearman printed out.

In the past, grandfather and grandmother could make themselves useful at various chores on the farm. If additional housing space was needed, lumber and other building materials were obtainable at low cost for building an addition to the farm home.

Families have reduced in size, and consequently there are fewer children to accept the responsibility of taking care of the support of their old folks, he added.

Inflation Hits Savings
These changes in urban family relationships and the increased number of persons in the older age brackets have pointed up the need for pensions and retirement plans, sponsored by the government, industry and the individuals themselves.

A minimum of $1,800 is required to maintain an elderly couple nowadays, Pearman said. To meet these minimum needs a savings accumulation of $22,500 would be necessary. Under the present social security law, the maximum allowance for a retired couple would be $120.

It is becoming increasingly difficult for the average person to put aside enough money for old age, the speaker continued. One-third of American families, for instance, are not saving. In recent years, inflation is virtually destroying the liquid savings of individuals.

I. P. Matthews Of Hyde Dies

Funeral Will Be Held Here Saturday

Irving P. Matthews, 45, of Hyde, member of a widely known Delta county family, died early Thursday evening of a heart attack at the Convalescent Home in Gladstone where he was a patient. Mr. Matthews had been an invalid for many years.

His death followed shortly the funeral services for his only son, Pvt. Irving Matthews, who was killed in action in Korea.

Mr. Matthews who engaged in farming with his parents before his illness, was born in Escanaba October 4, 1906, a son of the late Mr. and Mrs. Perry Matthews. He was a life-long resident of the community. He was educated in the Escanaba public schools and at St. Mary's college in Winona, Minn.

Surviving are one daughter, Christine, Escanaba, Route One; one brother, Robert of Grandson, Wis.; and two sisters, Mrs. Robert Newcomer of Mt. Morris, Ill., and Mrs. Richard Donahue of Hyde.

Funeral services will be held at 9 Saturday morning at St. Joseph's church with Father Stephen Schneider, O.F.M., officiating. Friends of the family may call at the Boyce funeral home where the rosary will be said at 8 this evening. Burial will be in Lakeview cemetery.

GOP Must Fashion Program In Interest Of All Americans

ANY American who wants his democracy to flourish must wish for the continued health of at least two major political parties. For if he has only one, that great lever of the democratic system—the right to choose among alternatives—is missing.

Consequently, whether you are a Republican or a Democrat, you ought to be troubled about what might happen to the Republican party should it go much longer without winning the White House in a national election. Power is life-giving sustenance to a political organization; and the GOP has not held supreme power since 1932.

Thomas Jefferson was a stout believer in the idea of rotation in office. After him the notion developed strongly that it was wise to change the leaders of government from time to time. The fear was that men who held power too long grew lax and irresponsible and corrupt. Occasionally, the unfolding of American history provided evidence in striking support of this philosophy.

It is furnishing that kind of evidence right now. A Democratic administration nearly 20 years in control of the White House is pock-marked with corruption. The RFC, the Internal Revenue Bureau, the Federal Power Commission, these may be but samples of the full story. The concept of honor in the public service is sadly frayed and torn.

Unquestionably a feeling of revulsion against scandal and confusion grips many Americans. Probably a good share of them would like a change. This would seem to be the moment, above all, for the Jeffersonian doctrine of rotation to come into play—for the good of Republicans and Democrats alike.

Yet the Republican party can have no guarantee that it will ride back to power on this wave of revulsion. It may—but again it may not. The rules of modern political life are not so simple as “throw the rascals out.” In the early 1920's, the GOP itself was rocked by the Teapot Dome scandal. But the Republicans were resoundingly re-elected in 1924.

The point is that elections are decided by a variety of factors. To rely wholly on your adversary's shortcomings is risky; they may not finally be dominant in the voters' minds.

In short, the Republicans, as has been said many a time, cannot count on winning with a purely negative approach. They must have a program—a program for all elements of the American population. It need not be a plan for appeasing everybody with government handouts. But it must be one which will appeal to Americans in every walk of life as genuinely in their interest.

Both games promise plenty of thrills and excitement. The football fans of the county will turn out in large numbers for these contests in support of their respective favorites.

The rivalry that has developed over the years between Escanaba and Gladstone athletic teams is a keen, intense rivalry but it is also wholesome because the teams and their followers have possessed the intelligence that breeds mutual respect.

This is as it should be. High school athletic games serve as extremely useful purpose as long as they help to develop friendly rivalries. They defeat their own purpose in those rare instances when rivalries become unfriendly and get charged with anger or hatred.

There is no Upper Peninsula championship at stake in either of the two games here this weekend that conclude the 1951 high school football season. That fact detracts nothing from the color, the excitement and the thrills of these contests.

Merry-Go-Round

By DREW PEARSON
WASHINGTON — Republican pundits have now had time to take careful soundings on the president's appointment of Gen. Mark Clark to the Vatican and have concluded that politically it will do the Democrats more harm than good.

At first they feared the surprise move would win the big-city Catholic vote back to the Democratic party—a vote which because of McCarthy's semi-successful cry of state department Communism, was definitely slipping over to the Republican side. However, they now figure that they can easily label the Truman gesture as politics, for two reasons:

1. Although the president had talked to General Clark a couple of weeks earlier and got his consent to serve as Vatican ambassador, he did not send the appointment to the Senate until late on the last day Congress was in session. Thus, GOP leaders intend to point out, Mr. Truman could not have been too serious about getting the new ambassador confirmed.

2. The further fact that General Clark, a military man, must get a special act of Congress to permit him to serve, gives him a double hurdle to overcome and further postpones the date when he can take office.

Thus GOP leaders figure the president has made the mistake of alienating large segments of Protestant voters, while gaining no new friends among Catholics. And they certainly intend to brand the Vatican appointment—when the campaign gets hot—as pure politics.

HOT POTATO IN OHIO
Buried in the files of the Senate elections committee, however, is some anti-Catholic campaign literature which has Republican strategists much more worried. This is the reason why the elections committee has been teetering back and forth trying to make up its mind about a real probe of the Ohio election.

Senator Taft made what is now considered a serious error by demanding that the Ohio campaign be investigated. What he had in mind was the large amounts of money spent by labor against him. But what preliminary investigation turned up was:

1. Around $2,000,000 poured in by all sorts of people to support him.

2. An anti-Catholic campaign against his Democratic opponent, jumping Joe Ferguson, a Catholic.

Highlight of this campaign was a letter, dated Oct. 3, 1950, signed by Rev. F. R. Stoneburner of Dayton, a Lutheran, and widely circulated throughout Ohio. It read:

“Dear Brethren: Please accept this letter merely as a matter of information. It should be known that Mr. Joseph Ferguson, who is running against Senator Robert A. Taft, is Roman Catholic.

“Knowing the efforts of the Roman church to get an official representative to the Vatican and its efforts to get public aid for parochial schools, I thought it equitable to pass this information on to you for what it is worth.

“Of course you know that our congressman, Edward Breen, is Roman Catholic and that he favors public aid for parochial schools.

“It is a mistaken public idea that Governor Frank Lausche is Roman Catholic. He was raised in an Orthodox church. His family goes to a Methodist church. He has never been a Roman Catholic. These are the facts as I have been able to ascertain them.

“For the authenticity of this letter, contact the Lutheran pastor in your community or Rev. F. R. Stoneburner, 201 Commercial St., Dayton, O.

“If you wish the members of your congregation to receive copies of this letter, please send such list to Post Office Box No. 224, Greenville, O.”

GILLETTE WORRIES
When Taft first demanded a probe of his campaign, the Senate elections subcommittee voted 4 to 1 for it, including the two Republican members, Mrs. Smith of Maine and Hendrickson of New Jersey. The only man who voted against it was timid Senator Gillette of Iowa, Democrat.

However, when the elections committee picked Robert Murphy, an experienced investigator and a Catholic, as its counsel, Rep. Clarence Brown of Ohio, Taft leader, blocked the appointment. He would not let a special bill okaying Murphy get through the House.

Into The Past

10 YEARS AGO
Escanaba — Formation of a Town Hall organization, which will sponsor a series of musical and lecture numbers, was completed at a meeting held at the Escanaba junior high school.

Manistiquet—Charles Holbrook of Germantown, truck driver for the Nelson Cleaners of Manistiquet, was injured in a collision with a Soo Line freight train at the Gould City crossing.

Washington — President Roosevelt denounced today the German execution of hostages in Europe and said the practice should be a “ghastly warning” to those who collaborate with Hitler.

London—RAF raiders gave the Italian port of Naples one of the heaviest soundings of the war during British aerial assaults upon axis targets from the North African desert to the Norwegian coast.

20 YEARS AGO
Nashville, Tenn.—Control of the Commercial-Appeal, Memphis morning newspaper, and the afternoon companion, the Evening Appeal, was sold today to federal receivers for the Minnesota and Ontario Paper company for $100,000, subject to approval by the chancery court.

Escanaba—Capt. Lawrence J. Gallagher, Detroit, Great Lakes boat skipper, is visiting his mother, Mrs. Anna Gallagher. Gladstone—Theodore Murray, Houghton Tech student, is visiting at the home of his parents here.

Escanaba—Betty Jane Brown, 7, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William Brown, 515 Second avenue south, and Belle Erickson, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Edward Erickson, 201 South Fifth street, were injured when struck by a truck near the Franklin school.

Chicago—Alphonse Capone remained in the Cook county jail tonight, saved for another day from Leavenworth prison.

U. N.'s Sixth Birthday Underscores Its Deterioration And Unrealism

By WM. HENRY CHAMBERLIN
THE WALL STREET JOURNAL

This week marks the sixth anniversary of the inauguration of the United Nations. It is more apparent than ever that the name of the organization was not happily chosen; the divided nations would be a much more accurate description.

Apart from the big chasm that yawns between the members of the Soviet bloc and the leading Western powers there are many smaller cracks and cleavages. The feud between Israel and the Arab states is unhealed. India and Pakistan, two of the larger new states of Asia, are glaring at each other as they dispute the possessions of Kashmir. Iranian expropriation of British oil holdings, Egypt's demand for British withdrawal from the Suez Canal and from partnership in the administration of the Sudan are symptoms of rising tide of nationalism which poses difficult economic and strategic questions.

Complicated World Structure
If the post-war world were split squarely between Communist and anti-Communist coalitions, the power and resources of the latter would be so much greater that aggressive Communism could be discounted as a threat to peace. But the situation is not so simple. To many Asiatics and Africans, colonialism seems a much more real issue than Communism. In the West struggle some large blocs must be discounted, even if not under Communist influence. The fitting of Germany and Japan into European and Oriental defense schemes is a tedious, difficult task, because some European peoples give the impression of fearing the Germans as much as the Russians, and some Asiatic countries take a similar attitude toward Japan.

To re-read the United Nations charter on the sixth anniversary of its formal going into force conveys a sense of unreality. For this charter is based upon an assumption that has long been proved a wishful fallacy. Many of its provisions make sense only on this assumption: That the five major powers, which are given the veto rights in the Security Council, would remain in permanent agreement on all major issues. These powers are the United States, the Soviet Union, Great Britain, China and France.

But the political history of the last six years is very largely a history of the sharpest kind of conflict between the Soviet Union and its satellite states, on one side, and the United States and Great Britain—with France more and more committed to the Western partnership—on the other. Passing over verbal disputes, this conflict has been characterized by the prolonged incitation of civil war in Greece, by the blockade of Berlin and, most serious of all, by the waging of full-scale war for more than a year as a result of the invasion of South Korea by Communist North Korean forces in June, 1950.

Conditions Have Changed
Mr. Trygve Lie, secretary general of the United Nations, uttered a masterpiece of understatement when he declared, in his recent report to the General Assembly: “The charter came into force six years ago in an atmosphere very different from that which exists today.”

It has obviously been impossible, in this changed atmosphere, to organize for the Security Council the independent international military force which is contemplated under the charter. Without a man or a gun at its direct disposal the United Nations has proved a weak reed on which to lean for the settlement of international disputes.

The U. N. was consistently flouted both by Arabs and by Israelis in the enforcement of its Palestine decision. It was unable either to prevent the Arab states from launching their very weak and ineffectual intervention or to prevent the Jews from taking a good deal more territory than the partition scheme assigned to them. Repeated U. N. efforts to settle the Kashmir dispute have led to no success.

Flaws In Practice
Formally, in resolutions and votes, the United Nations has taken a fairly firm stand against aggression in Korea. But practically the record is not so favorable. It is doubtful whether even the North Korean attack, to say nothing of the Chinese, could have been stemmed by the meagre forces which U. N. members, apart from the United States, put into combat. The U. N. showed little fortitude or steadfastness in the dark hours of last December; and it has almost disappeared as a factor in the Korean strife at the present time.

There are many reasons why the United Nations has not fulfilled the high hopes which it aroused in 1945. The most obvious and perhaps the most important is that, despite the glib and once popular phrase, “one world,” there is not the sense of world community, the general acceptance throughout the world of common moral, political and economic standards, without which no ambitious scheme of international organization is likely to achieve impressive results.

There can be no world government until there is general agreement as to the kind of society that is desirable. There can be no world law until there is a consensus as to what constitutes justice. There can be no world police agency so long as the objectives of some of the strongest powers are in head-on collision.

Some of Its Agencies Are Useful
The United Nations may continue to function as a public forum where international issues are threshed out and also as an agency which offers facilities for the private adjustment of international differences without the klieg lights of publicity. Some of its specialized agencies may perform useful services in such fields as health, education and economic research, although the danger of the undue growth of an international bureaucracy should not be overlooked. But, no matter what elastic interpretations may be given to the charter, the United Nations is not likely in any predictable future to be a firm, reliable bulwark against war. It is not and should not be considered the cornerstone of United States foreign policy. Any American statesman who left an issue vital to American security to the chance vote of the U. N. assembly would be incurring a very heavy responsibility.

It is only common sense to recognize that American security depends not on any resolutions that may be voted in the U. N., but first on American strength and resolution, second on combinations of powers, cemented by mutual interest and based on reasonable equality of risk and sacrifice, in which it may be America's interest to participate. No good purpose was ever served by pretending that hard facts do not exist.

Good Evening...

By CLINT DUNATHAN
EFFICIENT PEOPLE—Pursuing a but-terfly viewpoint and delaying preparations for the inevitable Northern Michigan winter places me in a class with about everyone else in my neighborhood, I have discovered.

The efficient, forward-looking individual is definitely in the minority, so far as putting up storm windows is concerned. And as for the necessary furnace cleaning, that too has been postponed to the last moment.

Now there is no choice but to go to work, regardless of the weather. This means handling the storm windows in a northwest gale and letting the fire in the furnace go out on a cold day for the cleaning job.

AND THE SLOW-POKE—The inefficient individual has some of the best intentions in the world.

Like others of my stripe, I had planned to do the autumn chores at an earlier date—but the weather was either too bad or too good to get around to the start.

When the weather was vile (and there was quite a bit of it like that) it was senseless to work on storm windows and furnace; when the weather was nice—well, there was partridge hunting, football games, and other attractive pleasures to attend to.

HAS MORE FUN—The efficient person leads a well-regulated but uneventful life compared to the individual with the butterfly outlook.

For one thing, the planner would miss such an event as took place in our house—hold the other morning—at 4 a. m.

Awakened by the chill and the sound of the stoker grinding valuable nuggets of coal, I arose in the darkness before dawn and found the fire had gone out.

For several weeks I had promised myself that on a nice warm day I would halt the stoker, let the fire go out, and clean the furnace. But this was not accomplished due to reasons previously stated.

Now was the opportunity. So I proceeded to clean out the furnace, including removal of the smoke pipe, which I carried to the alley to empty of its year's accumulation of soot.

If any of the neighbors were awake at that hour they must have thought that Dunathan had at last flipped his trolley. But it was a nice night (or morning) with bright shining stars and moonlight shimmering on the frosty grass. Methodical people miss a lot of fun in this world.

FACT AND FANCY—With the furnace job out of the way I can now turn my attention to the storm windows and the flower garden—as I fondly describe it.

The gladioli bulbs must be dug, dried and stored; dead tops of the plonies should be cut away and some of the roots transplanted; and the rose bushes need protection for the winter.

In addition I expect to rake the leaves that have accumulated, use some for winter covering of plants and put the rest in the raspberry patch for compost.

All this I expect to do, but knowing my record of achievement compared to expectations I doubt it will all be done.

THE FINAL FLING—The storm windows come last, for that in my considered opinion is the most disagreeable job of all. Amidst fluttering snowflakes or a mixture of hail and rain you will see me with a damp cloth in one hand and a storm window in the other—trying to find which window goes where.

The windows are numbered but each year I forget whether the numbers start at the southwest corner or the northwest corner of the house. To some people this might prove disconcerting. I have become accustomed to it.

Power With Words

By Dr. C. E. Funk

BEAUTIFUL WORDS OFTEN MADE TRITE BY INAPPROPRIATE USE
The movies and the advertising writers have taken some of our beautiful words and have used them so often as to make them trite and banal. Take the word “glamorous” as an example. As now used it means scarcely anything more than extremely beautiful, and it is rarely applied to anything not feminine. That notion, mysterious charm, having enchanting qualities, qualities, and it may rightfully be applied to anything such as poetry, or any person possessing such qualities. The history of “glamorous,” of which “glamorous” is the adjective, shows why the word has that meaning.

Before the printing press came into use, not 500 years ago, all books were hand-written, and, since few people could read anyway, they were written in Latin, a language that could be read by scholars anywhere in Europe. This language, however, was regarded with superstitious awe by the common people.

In England, it was thought that anyone who spoke and read “grammar,” shortened from “Latin grammar,” had magical powers and could cast spells and exercise enchantment. And in Scotland, where the word was altered to “glamer” (an alteration common in many languages), it was not known to have any other meaning than enchantment, magic, sorcery, or witchcraft.

This Scottish word, which he spelled “glamour,” was taken up by Sir Walter Scott, who introduced it into English literature slightly more than a century ago. Its Scottish sense has been retained, and the word now has no relation to grammar, Latin or otherwise.

But what about “trite” and “banal,” used above? Their meanings are almost identical. “Trite” came from the Latin “tritus,” worn out (by too great use), and the meaning has scarcely changed in English. “Banal,” which we pronounce BAY-nul, but which is sometimes BAN-ul in England, means commonplace.

Affairs run smoother for the man who uses plenty of elbow grease.

Loving Women

By Gordon Martin

Since the dawn of time our men have liked to kid the women folks, and of female ways and customs, they have made a lot of jokes. With a condescending attitude, they humor ladies fair, and they like to think that with a man, a dame cannot compare. But it's sure a fact we've got to face, that nine times out of ten, it's because of loving women that we have successful men.

If we look behind the scenes of any fellow's bright career, there we likely find a home that has a loving atmosphere. And its spirit is a tribute to a woman with a will, who has been his inspiration as he slowly climbed the hill. There were often times he thought he couldn't ever reach the peak, but her steady, shining presence made him strong and never weak.

Sure, we like to kid the women but nobody can deny, that a man's a funny critter and that life would pass him by, if it weren't for the courage in a woman's helpful hands, and the wealth of love she gives him in the way she understands. Let him brag of his ability but nine times out of ten, it's because of loving women that we have successful men.

College Boy Exemptions Unfair To Recalled Men

By ROBERT C. RUARK

NEW YORK—The old Ensign looked at the football crowds and scowled. The old Ensign was wearing faded khakis from the last war. The college boys were wearing snappy sports jackets and bright plaid pants.

"Look at me," the old Ensign said disgustedly, "playing sailor again after six years. I'm too old to play war and I am for sure too damned old to be an Ensign in the Coast Guard when a bunch of punks are being exempted by the draft boards all over the country while they put the arm on the tired old graduates to go back to service again."

The old Ensign volunteered in 1942, leaving a wife and two kids to go into the service as an apprentice seaman, although he is a college graduate and might have sweated out a commission if he hadn't been overanxious. He worked his way up several grades, and finally made a commission in 1944. Then the war ended in 1945 and the Ensign went back to wife, kids and interrupted business.

Family Is Expensive

"I figured I was out," he said. "Guard didn't say anything to me about reserves, organized or otherwise, and I never had a line from them in six years. I am doing pretty good with my contracting business, making 10, 12 thousand a year. Got swell kids oldest girl's in junior high now; the other girl will be there next year. I find that three women in the house are expensive."

"So all of a sudden comes the little note and, bless gawd, here is buster fractured mad and far from home. Had to close down the business, and I'm living off savings, because, believe me, chum, you can't make it on $260-something base pay—not when you got a wife who likes nice things and two nearly grown kids. I am real sore. Among other things it is not dignified to be a damned Ensign at my creaky old years. And I sure get no enthusiasm for the service when a lot of punks turn around loose."

College Boy Halo

The main point of the old Ensign's beef is that he has given his fair white body to Uncle Sam once, in a real war, and he does not see why he has to give it the second time when the nation's bulging with brash young talent that has not even offered itself once.

I am with him all the way, and I resent deeply that crack draft director Lewis Hershey made about "taking the halo off fatherhood." Before we remove the halo from the marries and the fathers, and start wholesale inroads into the ranks of the re-treads, let us yank the halo off the college boys first. Their education is no single snitch more important than the literal wreckage of the life of family men who have already done more than their bit.

It is estimated that about 90 percent of the draft boards are deferring students who pass the college deferment tests—largely, Gen. Hershey says, "because of the tremendous pressure of the higher education lobbies," the colleges, it seems, built up tremendous enrollments in the postwar, greatly expanded staffs and facilities, and want to keep their student bodies at inflated peak.

Selfish Gimmick

I think it is little short of criminal to use the college boy as a selfish gimmick at the expense of men like the old Ensign: men who lucked out a war, came back alive, and worked hard to reform his life and prepare a future for his family. Yet these men—not willful members of an organized reserve or a National Guard—have earned a right to some peace and prosperity unless the nation actually embarks on an all-out war.

Universal military training, had it not been juggled so handily as a political issue, would have resolved many of the inequities of military service that have arisen lately, and especially the loose administration of the draft laws, which seem to fluctuate entirely according to Gen. Hershey's flighty fancy.

I also challenge the right of the navy and Coast Guard to drag back their unwilling alumni on the technicality that they were never discharged, only deactivated. Most men who go out of those services were under the impression that they were through with uniforms forever.

Being a willing member of an organized reserve is one thing, but being subject to arbitrary call after one stint of service is as unjust as endowing the college man with a cloak of immunity from service at the expense of the weary old retreat.

GOP Must Fashion Program In Interest Of All Americans

ANY American who wants his democracy to flourish must wish for the continued health of at least two major political parties. For if he has only one, that great lever of the democratic system—the right to choose among alternatives—is missing.

Consequently, whether you are a Republican or a Democrat, you ought to be troubled about what might happen to the Republican party should it go much longer without winning the White House in a national election. Power is life-giving sustenance to a political organization; and the GOP has not held supreme power since 1932.

Thomas Jefferson was a stout believer in the idea of rotation in office. After him the notion developed strongly that it was wise to change the leaders of government from time to time. The fear was that men who held power too long grew lax and irresponsible and corrupt. Occasionally, the unfolding of American history provided evidence in striking support of this philosophy.

It is furnishing that kind of evidence right now. A Democratic administration nearly 20 years in control of the White House is pock-marked with corruption. The RFC, the Internal Revenue Bureau, the Federal Power Commission, these may be but samples of the full story. The concept of honor in the public service is sadly frayed and torn.

Unquestionably a feeling of revulsion against scandal and confusion grips many Americans. Probably a good share of them would like a change. This would seem to be the moment, above all, for the Jeffersonian doctrine of rotation to come into play—for the good of Republicans and Democrats alike.

Yet the Republican party can have no guarantee that it will ride back to power on this wave of revulsion. It may—but again it may not. The rules of modern political life are not so simple as “throw the rascals out.” In the early 1920's, the GOP itself was rocked by the Teapot Dome scandal. But the Republicans were resoundingly re-elected in 1924.

The point is that elections are decided by a variety of factors. To rely wholly on your adversary's shortcomings is risky; they may not finally be dominant in the voters' minds.

In short, the Republicans, as has been said many a time, cannot count on winning with a purely negative approach. They must have a program—a program for all elements of the American population. It need not be a plan for appeasing everybody with government handouts. But it must be one which will appeal to Americans in every walk of life as genuinely in their interest.

Football Season Ends This Week
THE high school football season will be concluded here this weekend with the Trojans of St. Joseph playing Niagara at Memorial Field tonight and with Escanaba and Gladstone meeting in their traditional annual battle tomorrow at the Escanaba athletic field.

Both games promise plenty of thrills and excitement. The football fans of the county will turn out in large numbers for these contests in support of their respective favorites.

The rivalry that has developed over the years between Escanaba and Gladstone athletic teams is a keen, intense rivalry but it is also wholesome because the teams and their followers have possessed the intelligence that breeds mutual respect.

This is as it should be. High school athletic games serve as extremely useful purpose as long as they help to develop friendly rivalries. They defeat their own purpose in those rare instances when rivalries become unfriendly and get charged with anger or hatred.

There is no Upper Peninsula championship at stake in either of the two games here this weekend that conclude the 1951 high school football season. That fact detracts nothing from the color, the excitement and the thrills of these contests.

Merry-Go-Round

By DREW PEARSON

WASHINGTON — Republican pundits have now had time to take careful soundings on the president's appointment of Gen. Mark Clark to the Vatican and have concluded that politically it will do the Democrats more harm than good.

At first they feared the surprise move would win the big-city Catholic vote back to the Democratic party—a vote which because of McCarthy's semi-successful cry of state department Communism, was definitely slipping over to the Republican side. However, they now figure that they can easily label the Truman gesture as politics, for two reasons:

1. Although the president had talked to General Clark a couple of weeks earlier and got his consent to serve as Vatican ambassador, he did not send the appointment to the Senate until late on the last day Congress was in session. Thus, GOP leaders intend to point out, Mr. Truman could not have been too serious about getting the new ambassador confirmed.

2. The further fact that General Clark, a military man, must get a special act of Congress to permit him to serve, gives him a double hurdle to overcome and further postpones the date when he can take office.

Thus GOP leaders figure the president has made the mistake of alienating large segments of Protestant voters, while gaining no new friends among Catholics. And they certainly intend to brand the Vatican appointment—when the campaign gets hot—as pure politics.

HOT POTATO IN OHIO

Buried in the files of the Senate elections committee, however, is some anti-Catholic campaign literature which has Republican strategists much more worried. This is the reason why the elections committee has been teetering back and forth trying to make up its mind about a real probe of the Ohio election.

Senator Taft made what is now considered a serious error by demanding that the Ohio campaign be investigated. What he had in mind was the large amounts of money spent by labor against him. But what preliminary investigation turned up was:

1. Around $2,000,000 poured in by all sorts of people to support him.

2. An anti-Catholic campaign against his Democratic opponent, jumping Joe Ferguson, a Catholic.

Highlight of this campaign was a letter, dated Oct. 3, 1950, signed by Rev. F. R. Stoneburger of Dayton, a Lutheran, and widely circulated throughout Ohio. It read:

“Dear Brethren: Please accept this letter merely as a matter of information. It should be known that Mr. Joseph Ferguson, who is running against Senator Robert A. Taft, is Roman Catholic.

“Knowing the efforts of the Roman church to get an official representative to the Vatican and its efforts to get public aid for parochial schools, I thought it equitable to pass this information on to you for what it is worth.

“Of course you know that our congressman, Edward Breen, is Roman Catholic and that he favors public aid for parochial schools.

“It is a mistaken public idea that Governor Frank Lausche is Roman Catholic. He was raised in an Orthodox church. His family goes to a Methodist church. He has never been a Roman Catholic. These are the facts as I have been able to ascertain them.

“For the authenticity of this letter, contact the Lutheran pastor in your community or Rev. F. R. Stoneburger, 201 Commercial St., Dayton, O.

“If you wish the members of your congregation to receive copies of this letter, please send such list to Post Office Box No. 224, Greenville, O.”

GILLETTE WORRIES

When Taft first demanded a probe of his campaign, the Senate elections subcommittee voted 4 to 1 for it, including the two Republican members, Mrs. Smith of Maine and Hendrickson of New Jersey. The only man who voted against it was timid Senator Gillette of Iowa, Democrat.

However, when the elections committee picked Robert Murphy, an experienced investigator and a Catholic, as its counsel, Rep. Clarence Brown of Ohio, Taft leader, blocked the appointment. He would not let a special bill okaying Murphy get through the House.

Into The Past

10 YEARS AGO
Escanaba — Formation of a Town Hall organization, which will sponsor a series of musical and lecture numbers, was completed at a meeting held at the Escanaba junior high school.

Manistique — Charles Holbrook of Gerin-fask, truck driver for the Nelson Cleaners of Manistique, was injured in a collision with a Soo Line freight train at the Gould City crossing.

Washington — President Roosevelt denounced today the German execution of hostages in Europe and said the practice should be a “ghastly warning” to those who collaborate with Hitler.

London — RAF raiders gave the Italian port of Naples one of the heaviest poundings of the war during British aerial assaults upon axis targets from the North African desert to the Norwegian coast.

20 YEARS AGO

Nashville, Tenn. — Control of the Commercial-Appeal, Memphis morning newspaper, and the afternoon companion, the Evening Appeal, was sold today to federal receivers for the Minnesota and Ontario Paper company for $100,000, subject to approval by the chancery court.

Escanaba — Capt. Lawrence J. Gallagher, Detroit, Great Lakes boat skipper, is visiting his mother, Mrs. Anna Gallagher.

Gladstone — Theodore Murray, Houghton Tech student, is visiting at the home of his parents here.

Escanaba — Betty Jane Brown, 7, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William Brown, 515 Second avenue south, and Belle Erickson, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Edward Erickson, 201 South Fifth street, were injured when struck by a truck near the Franklin school.

Chicago — Alphonse Capone remained in the Cook county jail tonight, saved for another day from Leavenworth prison.

U. N.'s Sixth Birthday Underscores Its Deterioration And Unrealism

By WM. HENRY CHAMBERLIN

THE WALL STREET JOURNAL

This week marks the sixth anniversary of the inauguration of the United Nations. It is more apparent than ever that the name of the organization was not happily chosen; the divided nations would be a much more accurate description.

Apart from the big chasm that yawns between the members of the Soviet bloc and the leading Western powers there are many smaller cracks and cleavages. The feud between Israel and the Arab states is unhealed. India and Pakistan, two of the larger new states of Asia, are glaring at each other as they dispute the possessions of Kashmir. Iranian expropriation of British oil holdings, Egypt's demand for British withdrawal from the Suez Canal and from partnership in the administration of the Sudan are symptoms of rising tide of nationalism which poses difficult economic and strategic questions.

Complicated World Structure

If the post-war world were split squarely between Communist and anti-Communist coalitions, the power and resources of the latter would be so much greater that aggressive Communism could be discounted as a threat to peace. But the situation is not so simple.

To many Asiatics and Africans, colonialism seems a much more real issue than Communism. In the West struggle some large blocs must be discounted—neutral or indifferent, even if not under Communist influence.

The fitting of Germany and Japan into European and Oriental defense schemes is a tedious, difficult task, because some European peoples give the impression of fearing the Germans as much as the Russians, and some Asiatic countries take a similar attitude toward Japan.

To re-read the United Nations charter on the sixth anniversary of its formal going into force conveys a sense of unreality. For this charter is based upon an assumption that has long been proved a wishful fallacy. Many of its provisions make sense only on this assumption: That the five major powers, which are given the veto rights in the Security Council, would remain in permanent agreement on all major issues. These powers are the United States, the Soviet Union, Great Britain, China and France.

But the political history of the last six years is very largely a history of the sharpest kind of conflict between the Soviet Union and its satellite states, on one side, and the United States and Great Britain—with France more and more committed to the Western partnership—on the other. Passing over verbal disputes, this conflict has been characterized by the prolonged incitation of civil war in Greece, by the blockade of Berlin and, most serious of all, by the waging of full-scale war for more than a year as a result of the invasion of South Korea by Communist North Korean forces in June, 1950.

Conditions Have Changed

Mr. Trygve Lie, secretary general of the United Nations, uttered a masterpiece of understatement when he declared, in his recent report to the General Assembly: “The charter came into force six years ago in an atmosphere very different from that which exists today.”

It has obviously been impossible, in this changed atmosphere, to organize for the Security Council the independent international military force which is contemplated under the charter. Without a man or a gun at its direct disposal the United Nations has proved a weak reed on which to lean for the settlement of international disputes.

The U. N. was consistently flouted both by Arabs and by Israelis in the enforcement of its Palestine decision. It was unable either to prevent the Arab states from launching their very weak and ineffectual intervention or to prevent the Jews from taking a good deal more territory than the partition scheme assigned to them. Repeated U. N. efforts to settle the Kashmir dispute have led to no success.

Formally, in resolutions and votes, the United Nations has taken a fairly firm stand against aggression in Korea. But practically the record is not so favorable. It is doubtful whether even the North Korean attack, to say nothing of the Chinese, could have been stemmed by the meagre forces which U. N. members, apart from the United States, put into combat. The U. N. showed little fortitude or steadfastness in the dark hours of last December; and it has almost disappeared as a factor in the Korean strife at the present time.

There are many reasons why the United Nations has not fulfilled the high hopes which it aroused in 1945. The most obvious and perhaps the most important is that, despite the glib and once popular phrase, “one world,” there is not the sense of world community, the general acceptance throughout the world of common moral, political and economic standards, without which no ambitious scheme of international organization is likely to achieve impressive results.

There can be no world government until there is general agreement as to the kind of society that is desirable. There can be no world law until there is a consensus as to what constitutes justice. There can be no world police agency so long as the objectives of some of the strongest powers are in head-on collision.

Some of Its Agencies Are Useful

The United Nations may continue to function as a public forum where international issues are threshed out and also as an agency which offers facilities for the private adjustment of international differences without the klieg lights of publicity. Some of its specialized agencies may perform useful services in such fields as health, education and economic research, although the danger of the undue growth of an international bureaucracy should not be overlooked.

But, no matter what elastic interpretations may be given to the charter, the United Nations is not likely in any predictable future to be a firm, reliable bulwark against war. It is not and should not be considered the cornerstone of United States foreign policy. Any American statesman who left an issue vital to American security to the chance vote of the U. N. assembly would be incurring a very heavy responsibility.

It is only common sense to recognize that American security depends not on any resolutions that may be voted in the U. N., but first on American strength and resolution, second on combinations of powers, cemented by mutual interest and based on reasonable equality of risk and sacrifice, in which it may be America's interest to participate. No good purpose was ever served by pretending that hard facts do not exist.

College Boy Exemptions Unfair To Recalled Men

By ROBERT C. RUARK

NEW YORK—The old Ensign looked at the football crowds and scowled. The old Ensign was wearing faded khakis from the last war. The college boys were wearing snappy sports jackets and bright plaid pants.

"Look at me," the old Ensign said disgustedly, "playing sailor again after six years. I'm too old to play war and I am for sure too damned old to be an Ensign in the Coast Guard when a bunch of punks are being exempted by the draft boards all over the country while they put the arm on the tired old graduates to go back to service again."

The old Ensign volunteered in 1942, leaving a wife and two kids to go into the service as an apprentice seaman, although he is a college graduate and might have sweated out a commission if he hadn't been overanxious. He worked his way up several grades, and finally made a commission in 1944. Then the war ended in 1945 and the Ensign went back to wife, kids and interrupted business.

Family Is Expensive

"I figured I was out," he said. "The Coast Guard didn't say anything to me about reserves, or organized or otherwise, and I never had a line from them in six years. I am doing pretty good with my contracting business, making 10, 12 thousand a year. Got swell kids oldest girl's in junior high now; the other girl will be there next year. I find that three women in the house are expensive."

"So all of a sudden comes the little note and, bless gawd, here is buster fractured mad and far from home. Had to close down the business, and I'm living off savings, because, believe me, chum, you can't make it on $260-something base pay—not when you got a wife who likes nice things and two nearly grown kids. I am real sore. Among other things it is not dignified to be a damned Ensign at my creaky old years. And I sure get no enthusiasm for the service when a lot of punks turn around loose."

College Boy Halo

The main point of the old Ensign's beef is that he has given his fair white body to Uncle Sam once, in a real war, and he does not see why he has to give it the second time when the nation's bulging with brash young talent that has not even offered itself once.

I am with him all the way, and I resent deeply that crack draft director Lewis Hershey made about "taking the halo off fatherhood." Before we remove the halo from the marries and the fathers, and start wholesale inroads into the ranks of the re-reads, let us yank the halo off the college boys first. Their education is no single snitch more important than the literal wreckage of the life of family men who have already done more than their bit.

It is estimated that about 90 percent of the draft boards are deferring students who pass the college deferment tests—largely, Gen. Hershey says, "because of the tremendous pressure of the higher education lobbies," the colleges, it seems, built up tremendous enrollments in the postwar, greatly expanded staffs and facilities, and want to keep their student bodies at inflated peak.

Selfish Gimmick

I think it is little short of criminal to use the college boy as a selfish gimmick at the expense of men like the old Ensign; men who lucked out a war, came back alive, and worked hard to reform his life and prepare a future for his family. Yet these men—not willful members of an organized reserve or a National Guard—have earned a right to some peace and prosperity unless the nation actually embarks on an all-out war.

Universal military training, had it not been juggled so handily as a political issue, would have resolved many of the inequities of military service that have arisen lately, and especially the loose administration of the draft laws, which seem to fluctuate entirely according to Gen. Hershey's flighty fancy.

I also challenge the right of the navy and Coast Guard to drag back their unwilling alumni on the technicality that they were never discharged, only deactivated. Most men who go out of those services were under the impression that they were through with uniforms forever.

Being a willing member of an organized reserve is one thing, but being subject to arbitrary call after one stint of service is as unjust as endowing the college man with a cloak of immunity from service at the expense of the weary old read.

POWER-CURVE Tractor Tires

Get your work done in less time

Missing manpower calls for greater farm efficiency. That's why Power-Curve tires are your best buy. Each king-size cleat is braced to stand firm, give you full traction in reverse as well as forward. Your work goes faster because Power-Curve cleats won't slip or buckle, give you greater drawbar pull.

Put Lister Ridge tires on your front tractor wheels. For General and Lister Ridge farming. Give easier steering and longer wear.

Tide GETS CLOTHES CLEANER THAN ANY SOAP!

TIDE not only washes clothes cleaner—but whiter, too, in hardest water!

CLEANER CLOTHES! When you rinse out a Tide wash, you've got the cleanest clothes in town... cleaner clothes than any other woman will get with any soap of any kind. And here's why—Tide not only gets out the ordinary dirt, but removes dulling soap film, as well!

WHITER, TOO! Tests prove Tide gets clothes cleaner and whiter than any soap in hardest water. What's more, after just one Tide wash, soap-dulled colors actually come brighter! Millions of you women have proved these Tide miracles. You've seen the proof in your husband's cleaner, whiter shirts... in your own bright wash prints.

NEW MILDNESS FOR HANDS! Yes, Tide is kind to hands—now milder than ever before. Tough on dirt—but easy on hands—that's Tide! Get Tide for the cleanest wash in town!

P.S. PREFER TO SKIP RINSING? With Tide you can skip the rinsing, and save all that time and work. Just wash, wring out, hang up. Tide will give you the cleanest possible no-rinse wash!

Social Situations

Your child and several of his friends are playing too rough in the house and making too much noise.

WRONG: Yell at them to be quiet or you'll send all the children home.

RIGHT: Tell them quietly but firmly they will have to quit playing so noisily or go out of doors to play. This can be done in such a way that you won't embarrass your child before his guests.

You are making a telephone call.

WRONG: Start in to talk without identifying yourself.

RIGHT: Give your name before starting to talk.

If You Want Friendships You Have To Make Them

By RUTH MILLETT

Writes a wife: "We've been married for five years and are happy together. We have two children we both enjoy. There's just one thing I'd like to change. We don't have any really close friends in this town we have lived in for the last three years. Some people seem to find making friends so easy and natural, but it hasn't been that way with us. Can you give us any advice?"

Here are a few questions that may help you to put your finger on the reasons why you and your husband haven't found friends in your new home.

Have you been sitting back waiting and hoping for friends to come to you? They probably won't, you know. Not because you aren't worth the effort, but simply because most people who are already established in a community are so busy with the friends they already have that they don't bother going out of their way to make new friends.

Make the Most of Invitations
Do you accept most of the invitations that come your way, even when it may seem inconvenient or when the evening doesn't sound too exciting? A newcomer who is anxious to make friends should make the effort to accept any gestures of friendliness that come along.

Do you have your home well enough organized so that you can usually manage to have on-the-spot-of-the-moment company? Being able to say: "Come by our house" after a meeting or chance encounter is the easiest way in the world for a newcomer to appear friendly without seeming to be pushing and contriving to be accepted.

Have you explored the possibility of friendships within your own neighborhood? This, too, is easy and natural for the stranger, for you can often break the ice with a loaf of home-baked bread, a plate of cookies, or an invitation to Johnny's mother to let him spend the afternoon with your children.

And don't forget the importance of a ready smile, a light-hearted approach to others, and a real interest and concern in their affairs.

A new transparent coating, made of vinylite resins, is now on the market, to prevent tarnishing of silver, brass, copper and other metals. The coating is applied with a brush and may be removed by breaking the film with a fingernail and peeling it off. It is recommended for use on such things as andirons, door knobs, lamps, candlesticks and ornamental metal articles.

Engineer Is Engaged To Make Master Plan Of Quarry Pool Area

G. Leslie Lynch, of New York, recreation planner and engineer for the National Recreation association, has been engaged by the city recreation commission to develop a master plan for the quarry pool area, it is announced.

Lynch is expected to arrive here Monday morning, and will spend the day surveying the area and determining the desires of various groups interested in the project.

Lynch is scheduled to meet with members of the recreation board in the city fire hall at 4:30, and another meeting is slated there at 7:30 in the evening to which all organizations interested in the quarry area are invited to send representatives.

Included among interested organizations are the Manistique Women's club, the Rotary and Lions clubs, the Manistique Municipal band, softball and baseball associations, and various veterans groups.

After making the survey and collecting other available data, Lynch will return to New York to develop a tentative plan for the recreational area. This will be submitted to the recreation board. After the local board has reviewed it and made any additional suggestions believed advisable, the plan will be returned to the recreation engineer who will then complete the master plan.

The city council several weeks ago instructed the recreation commission to proceed with the engagement of an engineer to survey the quarry pool area, now known officially as central park.

Council action followed a visit here and a subsequent report by John J. Collier, of Toledo, O., Great Lakes district representative of the National Recreation commission.

The recreation board is composed of Mrs. E. H. LeBrasseur, chairman; John F. Wood, Russell Watson, Emory Barnes and Pete Berger. T. H. Reque is the director.

Plans for the event were completed at a committee session Wednesday night. Mrs. Van Anderson is general chairman.

Th reserves played a six-game schedule during the season, winning five contests and tying one.

Parents Will Fete Reserves

Dinner Planned Saturday Night

Members of the Manistique reserve football team will be guests of their parents at a family style turkey dinner Saturday evening in the Lincoln school gymnasium, it is announced.

The dinner is scheduled for 6:30, and there will be a program consisting of group singing, music and a short message from Donald Dissinger, reserve coach.

Decision to entertain the reserves was made by a group of parents attending the final reserve game last Saturday night against the Marquette seconds.

Plans for the event were completed at a committee session Wednesday night. Mrs. Van Anderson is general chairman.

Scrap Iron Is Urgently Needed...

In order to keep the steel mills operating, particularly for the national defense program, more scrap iron is urgently needed.

Countless tons of vital scrap are lying around yards, fields, sheds, attics and basements.

Collect this scrap metal now... and get it to a scrap collector as soon as possible where it will be available when wanted.

Better yet, give your scrap to local 1196 in Manistique so that they can sell it to help raise funds for the annual Christmas party for local youngsters.

IN MEMORIAM

To the beautiful memory of our dear mother, Rosalie Van Slembruck, who passed away one year ago today, October 26, 1950.

One year of silent sorrow. One year of grief and pain. Your hearts are sad and lonely Since you went away. You left us so very quickly. God called and you had to go. You could not even say goodbye. And dear, we miss you so. We often sit and think of you. When at times they see us smile. And when we sit and think of you. We miss you here, we miss you there. For all of us you did your best. Loving and kind in all her ways. Upright and just to the end of her days. Sincere and true in her heart and mind. Beautiful memories she left behind. God grant you eternal rest.

Grady missed by her children. FRANK VAN SLEMBROUCK, GUS AND LOUISE BLOOM AND FAMILY.

NEW MASTITIS TREATMENT

For udder infusions, to treat cases of acute mastitis, we recommend Dr. Hess MASTITIS OINTMENT (Penicillin-Dihydrostreptomycin Ointment Veterinary):

This new Dr. Hess product contains both penicillin and streptomycin, which gives it a wider range of effectiveness than penicillin alone. Some mastitis organisms are not killed by penicillin.

Each tube contains 150,000 units of penicillin and 100 milligrams of streptomycin. This higher potency formula prevents development of resistance in the germs causing mastitis.

Dr. Hess MASTITIS OINTMENT comes in tube with applicator tip (no syringe needed). Each tube contains 7.5 grams. One tube is a dose for an infected quarter.

GLADSTONE

GRID FINALE SATURDAY AFTERNOON—The stage is set for Delta county's 1951 football windup which will match the Escanaba Eskymos against the Gladstone Braves here Saturday afternoon at 2 o'clock. Starting lineups are pictured above. For Coach Jim Rouman's Eskymos it will be Jojo Johnston, Bill Fallmer, Jack Chriske, Paul Davidson, Al Villemur, Jerry Bolm and Paul Gunderman in the line with Tom Smith, Cap Bartley, Paul Baldwin and Dick Carlson in the backfield. For Coach Don Pfotenbauer's Braves, reading left to right, it will be Harold Goodyear, Capt. Don Timler, Jim LaCosse, Dick Lamberg, Ron Timler, Bill Bovin and Martin Becker in the line, Norman Beauchamp, Tom Cannon, Tom Moreau, Jack Soderman or Lowell LaPlant in the backfield.

Twenty seniors will see final action on the squads Saturday. Last-year men for Gladstone are Don and Ron Timler, Duane Switzer, Soderman, LaCosse, Bovin, Norman Thivierge and John Alworden. Eskey seniors are Gerald Gardner, Villemur, Smith, Bill Fallmer, Johnston, Bolm, Bartley, Francis Barber, Baldwin, Gunderman and Chriske.

The game shapes up as one of the best in the long series between the schools. Both teams are in good physical and mental shape. Coach Pfotenbauer said this morning:

"We know that Escanaba has a good ball club. They have lost three games but these were to some powerful eleven. The Eskymos have more depth which must be overcome by terrific line play. I believe we can win but we'll have to be on our toes, not give them any breaks, and capitalize on any breaks we may get."

Coach Rouman said: "Our big problem will be that heavy Gladstone line. We regard Gladstone as one of the best defensive ball clubs on our schedule this season. The boys have gone through rugged practice this week and are ready for action." Other players on the squad, not pictured or listed above,

Officials for the game will be Eddie Chambers, Crystal Falls; Allan Ronberg, Norway, and Miles Finnegan, Niagara, Wis. (Daily Press Photos)

Trojans Face Badgers Tonight; Grid Finale

The final bell rings tonight at 9 o'clock at Memorial field for what may well be the finest football team in the gridiron history of St. Joseph Parochial school.

Coach Tom St. Germain's Trojans will tackle a highly-regarded Niagara, Wis., eleven in the season's windup for both schools. A capacity crowd is expected to swell the small Memorial field stadium and bleachers.

Eyes On Kutches
All eyes will be on St. Joe's brilliant left halfback, Pete Kutches, who this season has written his name on the all-time Trojans honor roll. Kutches runs, passes, punts, place-kicks, kicks off and calls signals for the Trojans. Besides offensive duties, Kutches serves full time on defense and his tackling and pass defense is equally brilliant.

For all his ability, Kutches is just one cog in the fighting Trojan eleven. Hampered by lack of size and injuries, the Trojans overcome the deficit with a rugged, alert brand of ball that has brought the team five straight victories after two opening losses this season.

In Niagara the Trojans will be facing a club that has won two games in succession, after bowing in four straight to Menominee Range competition. The Niagara victims are Norway and Crystal Falls, and St. Joe also has both those scalps on its belt.

Heavy Line
The Niagara line is rated the heaviest in the Range and will outweigh St. Joe's front wall considerably. And in the backfield the Badgers have a running back, Don Gunville, who approaches Kutches' offensive feats. He picked up more than 200 yards against Crystal Falls last Saturday and scored three TDs.

The Trojans will have seven seniors in action tonight, John Jungles, George Rappette, Bob Pepin, Ronald Pepin, Pete Kutches, Bill Baker and Tom Gasman. Officials for the game are L. Dick Schram, Escanaba; George Ruwutch, Escanaba, and Leo Brunelle, Bark River.

St. Joe-Escanaba Junior Varsityes To Play Tomorrow

Junior high school football teams of Escanaba and St. Joe will meet on the Eskey gridiron Saturday afternoon at 12:15 in a preliminary attraction to the Eskymo-Brave game at 2. Coach Mac McComber's St. Joe juniors will be seeking their fourth straight win of this season. The Trojans beat the Eskey Heavyweights in a previous meeting this season. Game officials will be Ben Gunderman and Ted Baldwin.

Trippi-Lambeau Feud Ended With Handshake

CHICAGO — (AP)—A threatened feud between Coach Curly Lambeau of the Chicago Cardinals and his star quarterback, Charley Trippi, apparently has been averted.

The two shook hands yesterday and declared a widely publicized ruckus was only a misunderstanding. Trippi got headlines Wednesday and Thursday with a charge that the Card coaching staff was "buck passing" in the club's 7-3 loss last Sunday to the Washington Redskins. It was the third defeat in four National Football league games.

The Pacific ocean has an area of 66,624,000 square miles.

Blackhawks Tie Canadiens, 2-2

(By The Associated Press)
Although the Chicago Blackhawks completely revamped their team during the off season, Windy City fans are not exactly breaking down the doors of Chicago stadium to see the "New Hawks."

Chicago, a few years ago, was the best drawing city in the National Hockey league but when the Hawks tailed off so did the attendance.

Only 6,948 fans turned out in Chicago last night to watch the Hawks battle the Montreal Canadiens to a 2-2 tie.

2-0 Lead
The Canadiens jumped off to a 2-0 lead in the first two periods on goals by Maurice Richard and Paul Masnick. Richard's goal was the 297th of his career.

Jim McFadden, one of the players acquired in a $75,000 deal with Detroit, shot the Hawks back into the game with a goal in the second period. Wee Willie Mosienko tied it up with a marker in the final heat, the 18th of his career.

Standings, Thursday's game included:
Detroit ..... 4 1 0 15 15
Montreal ..... 3 3 1 7 15 17
Chicago ..... 2 3 2 6 14 20
Toronto ..... 2 2 1 5 11 11
Boston ..... 2 2 1 5 9 8
New York ..... 1 3 1 3 9 12

Thursday's Results
NATIONAL LEAGUE
Montreal 2, Chicago 2 (tie).
AMERICAN LEAGUE
Indianapolis 6, Providence 5 (overtime).

Cage Fixers Admit Another Point Shave

NEW YORK — (AP)—Three University of Kentucky basketball stars of recent years, already charged with fixing one game, have admitted to shaving points in another.

District Attorney Frank S. Hogan said Alex Groza, Ralph Beard and Dale Barnstable told the New York county grand jury yesterday they received $500 each for keeping the score of the Feb. 8, 1949 Kentucky-Tennessee game under 18 points.

The three have pleaded guilty to conspiracy in the fixing of the national invitation tournament game between Kentucky and Loyola of Chicago in Madison Square Garden, March 14, 1949.

Groza scored 34 points against Tennessee as Kentucky won 71-56. Beard, hampered by an injured ankle, tallied six times but fouled out after 15 minutes. Barnstable made eight points.

Rated by St. Joe fans as one of the school's all-time athletes, Kutches will be closing out his high school football career tonight against the Niagara Badgers. In six games this season Kutches has advanced the ball more than a mile by rushing and passing. He has picked up 1,145 yards rushing and 700 passing, completing 42 of 66 aeriels. (Daily Press Photo)

Rate Michigan Slight Favorite Over Gophers

ANN ARBOR, Mich. — (AP)—Michigan and Minnesota meet here Saturday in one of college football's oldest and toughest rivalries. A homecoming crowd of better than 90,000 fans is expected for the contest that will determine who is to hold the next year's lease on the famed Little Brown Jug that Michigan has guarded zealously for the last eight seasons.

The twice beaten Wolverines put a perfect two game Big Ten league record on the block against the rebuilding Gophers who have only a lopsided win over Nebraska to boast of in four games this season.

Michigan Favored
Coach Bennie Oosterbaan's economy-minded squad, almost consistently outgained this season, but winners over Indiana and Iowa, is rated a one touchdown edge over the Minnesota visitors.

The game marks the first Minnesota appearance of Coach Wes Fesler against Michigan. But he is well known here as the former coach of tough Ohio State brigades.

The resourceful Fesler has been experimenting. In a complete reshuffling of the Minnesota club, he has come up with a two platoon outfit that plays only three seniors, and those are on defense.

Seven freshmen, four sophomores and four juniors fill out the two teams with Paul Giel, 185 pound sophomore halfback, as the key man.

Giel, a converted quarterback, leads the Minnesota rushers and passers, handles the punting chores and is regarded as one of the best potential backs in Minnesota football history.

Holme Rated
Giel teams with Marty Engh, a better than average sophomore, at the halves, with freshman Don Swanson at quarter and Ron Engel, 200-pound senior, at fullback. Another top performer is Mel Holme, of Stambaugh, Mich.

Oosterbaan will stick with the outfit that came to life after opening losses to Michigan State and Stanford. With Capt. Bill Putich and Wes Bradford at the halves, fullback Don Peterson and quarterback Ted Topor, Michigan worked smartly and efficiently to rack up lopsided conference victories. Minnesota has a lone defeat on its league slate, a 21-7 affair with Northwestern.

Last year Minnesota added to the unpredictable 41 game series by tying a favored Michigan team. The Gophers will be gunning for their 14th win over Michigan, against 25 defeats and three ties.

One Perfect Record To Go

NEW YORK — (AP)—Tennessee and Michigan State, college football's top-ranking powers, perform under wraps tomorrow but there's no such serenity for the other major unbeaten and untied teams.

At least one perfect record has to go to Princeton, N. J., where Princeton, boasting a 17-game winning streak, takes on Cornell, all-conquering in four starts. The game probably will decide the eastern championship.

Three others without a blemish—Stanford, Baylor and Northwestern—are underdogs against foes already spoiled at least once. Illinois, Maryland, Georgia Tech, and San Francisco will have to be at their best to continue their winning ways.

Heavily Favored
Tennessee, No. 1 in the Associated Press poll, is host to little Tennessee Tech at Knoxville while Michigan State, No. 2, entertains winless Pittsburgh at East Lansing, Mich.

If these front-runners get knocked off this week, somebody probably would demand a saliva test.

Princeton's single-wing Tigers, with a great tailback in All-

America Dick Kazmaier, rate a single point favorite over Cornell in the latest odds but most experts regard this as a "pick 'em" game. Games in the Middle West and on the Pacific Coast will have a lot of bearing on who winds up in Pasadena's Rose bowl on New Year's Day.

Illinois (4-0) plays at Indiana (2-2), meeting a Hoosier squad good enough to bump Ohio State last week, 32-10. At the same time, Northwestern (4-0) risks its unmarred record against Wisconsin (2-1-1) at Evanston.

Stanford vs. Washington
Illinois, ranked fourth, is a 12½ point favorite at Bloomington, Ind., but the boys have made Wisconsin a 6½ point choice to derail Northwestern.

Stanford, with an impressive 5-0 mark on the Pacific Coast, also has inherited the underdog role against power-laden but twice-beaten Washington at Seattle. The Huskies are favored by 6½ points.

Southern California, the new coast favorite after its triumph over California, entertains an out-of-state guest in Texas Christian.

Seventh-ranked Baylor, with four straight victories and a standout passer in Larry Isbell, plays rugged Texas A&M on the Aggies' home battleground at College Station, Tex. If you like the Bears you're supposed to give 1½ points. Cincinnati plays Texas Western.

Old Joe Takes On Young Unbeaten Heavy Tonight

NEW YORK — (AP)—Aging Joe Louis, who wants another shot at the heavyweight crown more than anything else in the world, risks that chance tonight when he faces young, undefeated, hard-hitting Rocky Marciano in a Madison Square Garden ten rounder.

This is the big test of his comeback for the 37-year old Brown Bomber and he knows it. A loss to the hard-hitting, 27-year old Brockton, Mass. belter means the end of the trail for one of the ring's alltime greats.

The betting professionals believe Louis is approaching the end. They have established him as a slim 6 to 5 favorite—the shortest odds in all of jarring Joe's career.

Lowest Odds
By fight time (10 p. m., EST) the odds may go up to 8 to 5. The lowest price ever on Louis was the 9 to 5 odds for his second fight with Max Schmeling. And you know what happened—Max was knocked out in 2:04 of the first round.

But 13 years have gone by since then and apparently so has most of the old dynamite in the Bomber's right fist. His reflexes have dulled and there isn't much resemblance between the young tiger of 13 years ago and the balding campaigner of today.

It's the old story of the ring—the veteran on the downgrade and the eager, hungry youngster on the rise. And the ancient drama of the ring will lure over 15,000 fans and a gross gate of around $150,000.

This is the ninth scrap for Louis since he was battered into dismal defeat by the raking punches of Ezzard Charles 13 months ago. Joe won all eight but only three by knockouts.

Marciano, one-time shoe worker who has been fighting pro a little more than three years, has won all 37 of his pro fights, 32 of them by knockouts. You can skip most of the 37 except for his split decision over Roland La Starza, classy New York contender, and his six round kayo of rugged Rex Layne on July 12.

The Lane victory established the swarthy Rocky as a big timer. A win over Louis will shoot him into a title fight next summer.

Schmeling stoned the Bomber in their first fight and Charles whipped him—the only losses for Joe in 70 fights, 55 of which he won by knockouts.

Out-Of-State Foes For U. P. Colleges

MARQUETTE, Mich. — (AP)—Both of the Upper Peninsula's college football teams tackle out-of-state foes Saturday. Northern Michigan traveling to Northland (Wis.) for a night game and Michigan Tech entertaining St. Cloud (Minn.)

Newberry At Stephenson In Homecoming Clash Saturday

STEPHENSON—The Stephenson Eagles will be host to unbeaten, untied Newberry Saturday night at 8 o'clock in the third annual Homecoming game between the schools.

Coach Morley Fraser's Indians will be seeking their 21st consecutive victory over a three-year period. The Indians have already wrapped up their third straight

Great Lakes Conference championship.

Playing last week without the services of speedster Ken Hofer, Stephenson fell from the unbeaten ranks with a 32-0 loss to Gladstone. Coach Frank Endres made no announcement concerning Hofer's chances of seeing action against Newberry. A chipped ankle bone kept him out of the Gladstone game.

Parents of Stephenson players will have reserved seats and will receive special recognition. Robert Gernand, former athletic director at Stephenson and now serving in the Marine corps, will be master of ceremonies at halftime. Homecoming queen will be crowned by Dr. Edward Sawbridge.

Spartans Expect Little Trouble With Pittsburgh

EAST LANSING — (AP)—The Spartans and the have nots meet here Saturday when the Michigan State football team goes through its scheduled workout against Pittsburgh.

Michigan State rates second in the Associated Press football poll and hasn't lost a game this year. Pittsburgh hasn't won one.

The figuring is that MSC should have no trouble in pulverizing Pittsburgh and extending its victory string to an even dozen since the upset by Maryland last year.

The most popular prediction is Michigan State by three touchdowns.

Most of the interest in the game will be centered in how big a score the Spartans can run up. Notre Dame beat Pittsburgh 33-0 last week.

Michigan State and the Irish meet here in two weeks and the fellows who figure form want to see if MSC can top this as a tip-off on the strength of the two teams.

There are a couple of items that could jiggle the apperect, however. First is the erratic play the Spartans have shown in most games this season.

Like the girl with the curl, when they're good they're very, very good. But when they're bad

In This Corner

With Ray Crandall

For the first time in history, four officials will handle the Menominee-Marquette football game at Menominee tomorrow afternoon . . . The four officials have worked together as a unit in Chicago in the past and are highly regarded in their profession . . . Big Ten officials were hired to work the M-M games from 1922 until 1947, and for the past three years officials have been divided between Michigan and Wisconsin, with one Upper Peninsula official working as head linesman . . . George Ruwutch, Eddie Chambers and John Kelly handled those duties . . . The Chicago men who will be on the field tomorrow are Robert Woods, Joe Unewitz, Fred Vessel and William Harley, the latter working as a field judge.

Ken Lowe of Marquette tells of five Upper Peninsula natives who have played on major league baseball teams . . . Two were from Escanaba . . . Listed alphabetically, the quintet consists of: William Max Burich, who was born in Calumet and who played shortstop and third base for the Philadelphia Phils in 1942 and 1946; William Denton (Dolly) Gray, Houghton, pitcher for Washington in 1909, 1910 and 1911; Clarence Emanuel Lehr, Escanaba, second baseman, shortstop and outfielder for the Phils in 1911; John Stephenson Perrin, Escanaba, outfielder for the Boston Red Sox in 1921, and Lester Leo Sweetland, St. Ignace, pitcher for the Phils from 1927 to 1930 and for the Chicago Cubs in 1931.

Mac Danielson, former Escanaban who attends Drake University in Des Moines, Iowa, forwarded several enlarged pictures of the two plays in which Johnny Bright, great Drake back, suffered a broken jaw in the game against Oklahoma Aggies last Saturday . . . The pictures clearly show that Wilbanks Smith, Aggie tackle, deliberately smashed his right fist to Bright's face . . . We say deliberately because Bright was standing empty-handed about 10 yards from the play when Smith nailed him . . . Everyone else on the field, including Oklahoma and Drake players, the officials and Bright himself, was concentrating on the ball carrier . . . But Smith made a beeline for Bright and didn't stop until the Drake back was down . . . We'd say that whatever other action is taken by school officials in the case, Smith should at least be tossed out of college football.

Divorce Prevention System Figured Out

HARTFORD, Conn. — (AP) — A system of "divorce prevention" has been worked out by the Very Rev. Louis M. Hirshson, dean of Christ Church Cathedral in Hartford.

All couples married in the church in the past five years were invited to a special service, which began with the traditional sacred wedding music. The marriage ceremony was re-read and all were invited to stand and join in renewal of marriage promises.

"I have known of church people who became divorced," the dean said. "Yet in my quarter century of the ministry, I have known not a single instance of those who have prayed and worshipped together habitually, to have become separated."

Stalin Statues Built In Eastern Europe

VIENNA. — (AP) — Even if Communism doesn't last, the Communists are making sure that Stalin won't be forgotten. Some of the busiest construction in Eastern Europe revolves around the building of statues of the Russian leader. Practically every town of size in the Balkans is building at least one.

One of the biggest is in Budapest, Hungary's capital. The huge bronze edifice is 55 feet high on its pedestal and will stand in the city park.

"Beneath Stalin's smiling face," says a Hungarian newspaper, a dais is being built from where Communist leaders can review parades.

Forest Service Wants Roads To Remote Areas

By VIRGINIA I. NEAL
THE WALL STREET JOURNAL
WASHINGTON. — The National Forest Service is all set to sell off large supplies of timber in remote parts of publicly owned forests. But it wants Uncle Sam to build roads so buyers can haul it away. Presently inaccessible supplies of timber for plywood, pulp, sawwood and some newsprint are available mostly in the West, Forest Service officials say.

In a recently issued booklet, "Our National Forests," the service argues that if roads are built, the yearly cut of timber for private industry could be increased more than 50 per cent from last year. The cut from national forests in 1950 was about a billion board feet, or almost three times that of 10 years earlier the service reported. Total consumption of timber in the U. S. averages about 50 billion feet each year, officials say, for both paper making and lumber.

Service officials insist that now is the time to beat paths to new timber resources. They maintain that even without the defense program they could market almost $6 million worth of timber from Government-owned land. Each 2 billion feet of timber sold to industry means profits to the Government of $20 million, they estimate.

Draws Congress Attention
Receipts from the sale of timber by the service recently have drawn attention from Congress. Before adjournment, the House Agricultural Appropriations subcommittee considered a proposal to finance roads with forest service receipts which are turned over to the U. S. Treasury. This proposal may be renewed when the House reconvenes in January, or it may be succeeded by a bill in the House Agriculture Committee which would authorize public expenditure of $30 million for a road-building program in national forests, over a period of five years.

The forest service is a bureau of the Agriculture Department which administers 181 million acres of publicly owned forests in the United States and Alaska. Congress gave the service authority to sell timber on national lands back in 1897, specifying, however, that it could not be sold for less than the "appraised value." Timber is sold to the highest bidder after being advertised for 30 days.

If Congress should approve the use of public funds for the roads, forest service officials say, they could be built in two ways. Some roads might be built by the service itself—it would hire the labor and use its own road-building equipment. In other instances, bids would be let to private contractors through the Bureau of Public Roads of the Commerce Department.

Primarily in West
The remote forest areas which could be opened up by new access roads are primarily in the West, service officials declare. They mention, especially, the Douglas fir region of Oregon and Washington, sections of California and the "inland empire" of northern Idaho and northwest Montana.

Last year, the forest service receipts were nearly $34,500,000. Receipts come mostly from sales of timber and grazing fees.

The timber or "stumpage" sold in national forests averages $12.76 a thousand board feet. It is difficult to compare this price with the cost of timber grown by private foresters, officials say, because Government land represents the only large stumpage market in the country, where timber is sold without being processed. Also, prices of types of timber vary according to region. White pine, for example, may be sold for $20 or $25 a thousand board feet in one area and up to $40 or $50 in another. White fir may cost $5 or $10.

Service officials maintain that in a full-scale war, potential timber supplies would be greatly needed. They recall that in the last war, there were instances, even, when steel was substituted for scarce lumber. As the defense program progresses, they say, most wood will be required for such uses as temporary buildings, and shipping and crating.

Thick Salt Deposit Found Near Montague By New York Firm

MONTAGUE, Mich. — (AP) — A deposit of salt 260 feet thick was discovered in an exploratory well sunk two miles west of here by the Hooker Electro-Chemical Co. of Niagara Falls, N. Y.

The company is seeking a site for the construction of a plant that is expected to cost $10,000,000. Salt deposits will be needed in its operations.

The site presently being considered by the company is on White lake. A proposal to rezone the area is now before the township.

THOSE IN UNIFORM

Chief Electrician Edward M. Schmidt, USN, husband of Mrs. Mary Schmidt and son of Mr. and Mrs. Otto Schmidt of 515 S. 14th st., Escanaba, Mich., is currently participating in the largest Atlantic Fleet war games since the beginning of the Korean War.

He is electrical officer for the USS Taconic, flagship of Vice Admiral Robert P. Briscoe, USN, Commander Amphibious Force, U. S. Atlantic Fleet.

Electrician Schmidt visited St. Thomas, V. I.; San Juan, P. R.; Cuidad Trujillo, Dominican Republic; Santiago de Cuba and Guantanamo Bay, Cuba during the first phase of the giant exercises.

Designed to emphasize the necessity of close coordination between the armed forces, the mock exercises extend from the Virginia Capes to the small island of Vieques, east of Puerto Rico. More than 200 ships, 250 planes, and 100,000 naval and marine personnel will participate in the mock assaults.

Pvt. Carl M. Lueneburg, 524 S. 19th st., Escanaba recently was awarded the Combat Infantryman Badge for excellent performance of duty in combat with the 7th Infantry Division in Korea.

The badge, a symbol of the front line fighting man, distinguishes the combat soldier from rear area and service troops. It consists of a miniature replica of a Revolutionary War flintlock rifle mounted on a blue background and superimposed on a wreath.

Lueneburg, a rifleman, entered the army in March 1951.

He wears the Korean Service Ribbon with one campaign star.

Germ Warfare Attack On America Possible, Says Army Scientist

WASHINGTON. — (AP) — Brig. Gen. William M. Creasy, the Army's top man in biological warfare research, says "the possibilities are great" for a damaging germ warfare attack on this country.

But, in a speech to a group of scientists here Creasy said the possibilities "are frightening only if we give way to panic or if we fail to insure that we are ahead of any other nation in knowledge and preparedness in this field."

The General called germ warfare "essentially public health and preventive medicine in reverse," and he continued:

"Except for novel methods of achieving deliberate dissemination of pathogenic organisms, it is a form of warfare which nature has waged against man for thousands of years, and against which modern health practices have produced effective defenses."
